DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10/28/2005 has been entered.

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 13 and 14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The invention as now claimed fails to find support in the disclosure as originally filed. Specifically, there is no basis to claim a core constructed of multiple core layers having different densities. The specification sets forth usage of but a single core layer 16 or 43. The claiming of core density between about 4 and 10 lb/ft<sup>3</sup> finds no support in the specification as originally filed as well.

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3617

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 11 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bambara et al. in view of Lauer et al.

Bambara shows a foam structure comprising core (4), intermediate layer (24), and first layer (22). The thickness of each layer is shown in figure 3. The foam structure can be a bodyboard. The core and layers are foams. The foams can be any of the polymer and copolymer blends listed in line 63 of column 6 through line 18 of column 7. Bambara discloses ethylene-alpha olefin copolymer, copolymer of ethylene with octene, polyethylene, polypropylene, ethylene vinyl acetate, thermal bonding. Bambara discloses that each layer has a density greater than the core density. Bambara does not disclose that the intermediate layer is metallocene based.

Lauer teaches the equivalency of metallocene based and non- metallocene based polyolefins.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to employ/substitute known equivalent materials, one for the other, and substitute a metallocene-based polyolefin for a non- metallocene polyolefin in the board of Bambara as taught by Lauer.

Re the claimed densities, "about" broadens such ranges to the extent that the densities of the layers are met by Bambara. Furthermore, in this instance, such densities fall within the realm of obvious choice of design, such being well within the level of skill of the ordinary routineer working in the art at the time of the invention, providing no unexpected results. It should be noted in support of this position, no real criticality for such values has been set forth by Applicant.

6. Applicant's arguments filed 10/28/2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's arguments have been addressed within the body of the rejection.
